meeting possible. After establishing these officials, they will try to reduce the number of meetings, and in so doing, making the meetings interesting with relevant material. One way in which this might be done is to have an exhibition of the electrical machinery of some prominent man as such time as some proposed by the Progressive party to give a lecture to the public. It would be difficult to support any "farcical" campaign being carried on, but hope that, with the promise of support, the Progressive party will be able to follow its course.

The Progressive also plan to follow up the experiment of inadequacy of campaign funds by getting the Canadian Progressive to buy the electrical machinery.

In the first place, the election is to be held on Oct. 17th, and the Progressive party have to have a club join with them in order to have a seat in the Government (or the Moderate party) and the Progressive party which is its constituency.

The Important Point.

That sugar order would have stood if the public had stood for it.

Might Be Worse Off.

The householder who is able to acquire a Thanksgiving turkey at present prices has something to be thankful for.

A Real Object.

A Winnipeg tenant objects to a ten dollar a month increase in rent on the ground that twenty tenants in the block have to share one bath tub. The bathtub argument may be only a surface consideration but in such a case it ought to count for something.

A Lucky Country.

Mr. Hoover says he thinks the peak of high prices has been reached in the United States, and that from now on they are likely to decline. A dismal readjustment. He will probably right. Prices in the United States are not controlled by our Board of Commerce.

Struck Themselves Out.

Only 18 miles from District 18 are 11 miles. It is as result of the result of the O.B.U. strike. If that reflects the strength of the organization it might be as well to let the strike go on indefinitely. The chances are that the strikers will run short of money and go back to work before the people suffer, or the industry comes to a crisis, if that is the way they can do by taking a holiday.

An Unprofitable Occupation.

The sentencing of Bassett at McLeod, marks the end of another gang of bandits. Like the one that followed the execution of the Saskatchewan Police, near the Hudson's Bay Junction, its career was neither long nor prosperous, and it comes to a tragic end. The bandit business does not pay in this part of the world. Western Canada never was a "wild" West, and doesn't intend to be.

A Timely Warning.

The Fire Marshall of the city warns householders and business firms that this is the time when fires are due to carelessness. Stoves should be overhauled and put in condition for safe and efficient service. The warning should not go unheeded. A large proportion of the fires and "near fires" occurring in the city are due to carelessness in the use of stoves. The advent of cold weather makes lively stocking necessary. In the nature of things that time cannot now be far distant. It is better to take precautions than to take chances.

Restricting The Bill-of-Fare.

Fishing interests at the Coast have been representing to the Railway Commission that under the new rates fish from Pacific ports will be practically excluded from the prairie market. This is obvious reason in their claim. Even under the new rates fish must pay to have their transportation charges in order to enable prairie consumers to use ocean fish and save bacon for the army. To impose the higher cost of transportation, which the consumer would have to pay, would probably need that the Government would be compelled to do so.

The prairie market could easily be ruined if the fisherman's family menu entirely all over the prairie country, for while the cost of the fish is thus increased the cost of home-grown meat is bound to decline.

Brought to a Halt.

Everybody has been "kicking Mr. Meighen's dog around" to wit, the Board of Commerce. It is not likely that any previous authority in Canada ever succeeded in concentrating attention upon itself in one stroke in the way that the Board has focused the interest of the country upon itself by its new sugar-control order. It is even less likely that any previous body ever wanted to draw attention to the Board of Commerce, or that any human set of commissioners will aspire to share the distinction in kind and amount.

The Board of Commerce, to put it plainly, is about as popular today as skunk at a garden party. Even in its existence are scandalized by its appearance and its antics at the particular time and place, and the consensus of opinion is that the animal ought to be put away in the basement of the public conference and happiness of the community.

The Railway Commission plainly owes the Board of Commerce a vote of thanks for diverting the popular mind from the railway rate board. The Board of Trade, which the Commission has held the lime-light without a rival as the arch-villain in the drama of national politics. The moment at least the Commission is free from control, the public will have a rest in the shadows of forgetfulness. Popular disgust can only do justice to one such outrage at a time, and just now the empty stores looking half at the empty streets are thinking what they would like to say to the Board of Commerce.

That, of course, is what the Board of Commerce was made for. The blame lies with the Government when sugar or some other commodity is "controlled" in the interest of Big Business. At the expense of the public. When the public is being taxed, thinking what they would like to say to the Board of Commerce.

What plan is required to compensate the public for what circumstances?

We have heard of the word "candy," which can get in regard to the sugar control. Is the term "candy" not a good name for a campaign where alcoholics drinks were prohibited, carrying their tanks in their rubber boots for ready access?

What plan is required to compensate the public for what circumstances?

According to those who study things the planet Venus is named.

I would be pleased if you will give me the name of the author of "The Population of the British Empire."

The population at the last census totalled 400 million for hundred and thirty-five millions.

Would you please tell me in your next column if there is any wood or sticks made of wood? I contend there is and have backed my contention of the use of wood for the construction of houses.

Your bet. Stockings can be made from wood and in some instances from bone. The most common are elastic socks and are put through other processes until viscous.

What is the name of the thing which the Government has done, without stirring up a rebellion, even in the most subservient parliament?

The Board of Commerce overdid the thing. There is a limit which the public will stand, and that limit was over-reached when the country was hedged about by non-importation orders.

Not that the public would suffer more from the sugar order than from the railway tariff, nor perhaps from non-importation edicts of the Board. But there was no ground of even decent pretense for making such an order. It was the most base-faced attempt of exploitation ever made.

THE EXCHANGE RATE

II.—What Controls It?

THIS series, published each week, is intended to remove misunderstandings as to the cause of fluctuation in the exchange value of our dollar in other countries.

When the demand for any commodity is greater than the supply, the price of that article goes up.

A foreign dollar is a commodity in Canada, that is something to be bought or sold and not current money, and similarly the Canadian dollar is a commodity in a foreign country and not current money there.

Their value (or rather their price in the local currency) is therefore governed by the law of supply and demand.

The important commodities are currencies. It is they that are not "legal tender" outside their own country.

You would not like a debt to you to be paid in German marks or French francs because of the difficulty you might have in converting them into your currency. At border points in the United States, our immediate neighbor, where exchanging the two currencies is a simple matter, Canadian money is now generally accepted, but elsewhere in that country it is taken reluctantly.

To protect their peoples all Governments provide that creditors may refuse payment of amounts due them unless made in certain specified currencies and the currencies so authorized are called "legal tenders."

The banker who receives "foreign dollars" cannot therefore pay them over the counter so they may never mention him, but will cash them in his bank for exchange them for currency of his own country.

Next week in No. III of this series we will explain the method of making this exchange.

BAN JOHNSON PROMISES BIG DEVELOPMENTS

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Starting developments in connection with the trial of the baseball players, Ban Johnson, president of the National League, has promised the owners here Monday to frame a new governing baseball for professional baseball.

"I am not having," wired President Johnson as follows:

"It is my information that dues are now in hands which may lead to the formation of a new league. I believe that all attempts to reform baseball have been fruitless. I should prefer that new franchises should be deferred until we know 'who's who' in baseball."

"Some changes have been made since the experiments were started. I believe the developments of the last couple of weeks will be even more surprising to the public."

WHAT PRESS AGENTS SAY

CHANCY, WONDERFUL CRIPPLE OF "THE MIRADE MAN" AT ALLEN STARTING MONDAY IN THE PENALTY

Star Takes Part of Blizzard, Gold-Blooded King of Underworld, Whose Legs Were Amputated When He Was a Little Boy—Most Powerful Film of The Year

Three hours' camera men and all the actors engaged in making the scenes out "The Penalty," which will open at the Allen three days starting Monday next, are unanimous in their admiration of the performance of Chaney, who plays the part of "Blitzie" and got out of prison. The scenes in this picture show the ordinary meaning in playing the part of the man who has been condemned to step into one of the most difficult situations in the making of pictures. Although a screen star, Chaney had to play the part of a man who had lost his legs.

In Gouverneur Morris' famous story, "The Man Who Lost His Legs," the man whose legs were amputated at the knees when he was a little boy, to get a man without legs who was an accomplished actor was a difficult task. Finally Chaney volunteered for the part, and the picture turned out to be a success. The scenes in which he got into a harness which strapped the lower part of his body to a chair, thus enabling him to walk about on his toes, show the effect of a legless man. The scenes are so realistic that they are great and the danger of stopping the scenes is so great that the actors could not keep the harness on for more than twelve minutes at a time.

On the other hand, the wonderful imitation of the character of the "King of Underworld" is the effect of a legless man.

Chaney first came into prominence in "The Man Who Lost His Legs," and since then he has appeared in the distorted face, who gets into his legs to get a man without legs who is a member of the famous gang that robs banks. The picture was made before the footlights for the last hundred years. The Allen have given him the screen name of "Spot" Jr.

What are five "don'ts" that all actors should observe? That is the question that the press is asking.

Answer to this question remains to be seen.

WESTERN HORSES

Dear Girls and Boys:

Have you ever thought of the varied names that have been given to the kind of horses that were found in Alberta when the white settlers came West? Perhaps you will be interested because nearly everyone likes a horse. Some of you use a horse to travel to school every day. Maybe you call him a pinto or a cayuse. Even if he is only a cayuse he can be very useful. I have seen three or four little ponies riding to school on one cayuse. And the cayuse seemed to be perfectly ridable about it.

The scientists tell us that the horses as we know it is not a native of America, though they say that there once lived on this continent an animal about the size of a fox that was really horse-like in its structure. Why, in America, there were no descendants that might be called horses, we do not know.

When Columbus came over from Spain on his second voyage in 1497, he brought Spanish horses with him. The Indians were much astonished and frightened, as they had never seen animals of this kind.

The Spaniards of the time of Columbus and of the adventures Cortes and Pizarro, brought over horses to serve as means of transport. They used them as pack-horses in crossing the mountains in Mexico and Peru and other portions of the New World. Many of these horses escaped. From these descended the wild horses of America. These are the ancestors of the horses found in Alberta. We have the mottled or pinto-horse that is still called the pinto, which is the Spanish word for painted. And he often looks as if he had been painted, with his curious patches of white so unevenly scattered.

One Spanish word for rough is bronco—a word that well notes the behaviour of the horses so called.

The word must apply to both wild and half-wild horse especially in Mexico and California, another name of Spanish origin. These horses are usually from the stock of the Spanish conquerors.

The word cayuse applied to many of the Indian horses is a name given to the horse by the Chinook Indians of the state of Oregon.

All these names are often wrongly applied. For example when western range horses have been shipped into the Eastern Provinces many people down East have called them mustangs because they had so little care.

Otherwise we now have many well-bred horses, the offspring of good horses brought from Europe. And so the wild and his relatives will probably ere long disappear.

Yours sincerely,

EL HILL

MACKENZIE KING DEALS WITH THE SUGAR COMBINE

Challenges Government to Disclose Names of Those Controlling Sugar Refineries

Pentiction, B. C., Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press)—Although it was after eleven o'clock at night when Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King began his address to the Canadian Sugar Refiners Association, the crowd greeted him with a hearty hand-clapping. Denunciation of the recent board of commerce sugar order was the chief topic of the speech, which charged that the Mackenzie government had been instrumental in bringing about the decline of which the sugar order was designed to protect.

"The decline," he said, "is to go the length of saying that the personal or business interests of the sugar refiners in the present administration on may help to account for the circumstances that have led to the decline in the production of Canadian sugar." He said that the Canadian Sugar Refiners Association, which has been instrumental in bringing about the all-important article of food, I go, however, think there should be an immediate disclosure of the names of those who are responsible and who within recent years have aspired to the heads of the boards of directors of the sugar refining companies in Canada, the St. Lawrence refinery, the Quebec refinery, the Ontario refinery, which the stocks of these companies are held by the Canadian Sugar Refiners Association. I would like to see that these facts are immediately given to the Canadian public. A man who is not a member of the board first step in helping to clear up the mystery of the sugar industry in the dominion."

It was announced that some of the men in the engineering departments had been called at work to keep the break even more square than before.

The moratorium is expected by dealers to meet with a general condition requiring the break even more square than before.

Coincident with the strike decision, the government had placed a ban upon the railroads, miners and other employees upon neighboring provinces, miners less dependent upon Great Britain, and less dependent upon foreign markets.

Many of the British industries, notably the coal and iron and steel industries, and some of the shipbuilding and engineering concerns, were already arranging to close down.

The question whether the railway men will be compelled to strike again is the subject of deep public concern.

Do not make your mistake.

This appears to be the first case of its kind in the Edmonton city court.

Frank Weston, who was found guilty on the charge of indecent exposure for having sex with a minor, was sentenced to 18 months in prison.

Weston, who was found guilty of doing willful damage to an automobile, was ordered to pay the costs of the case.
